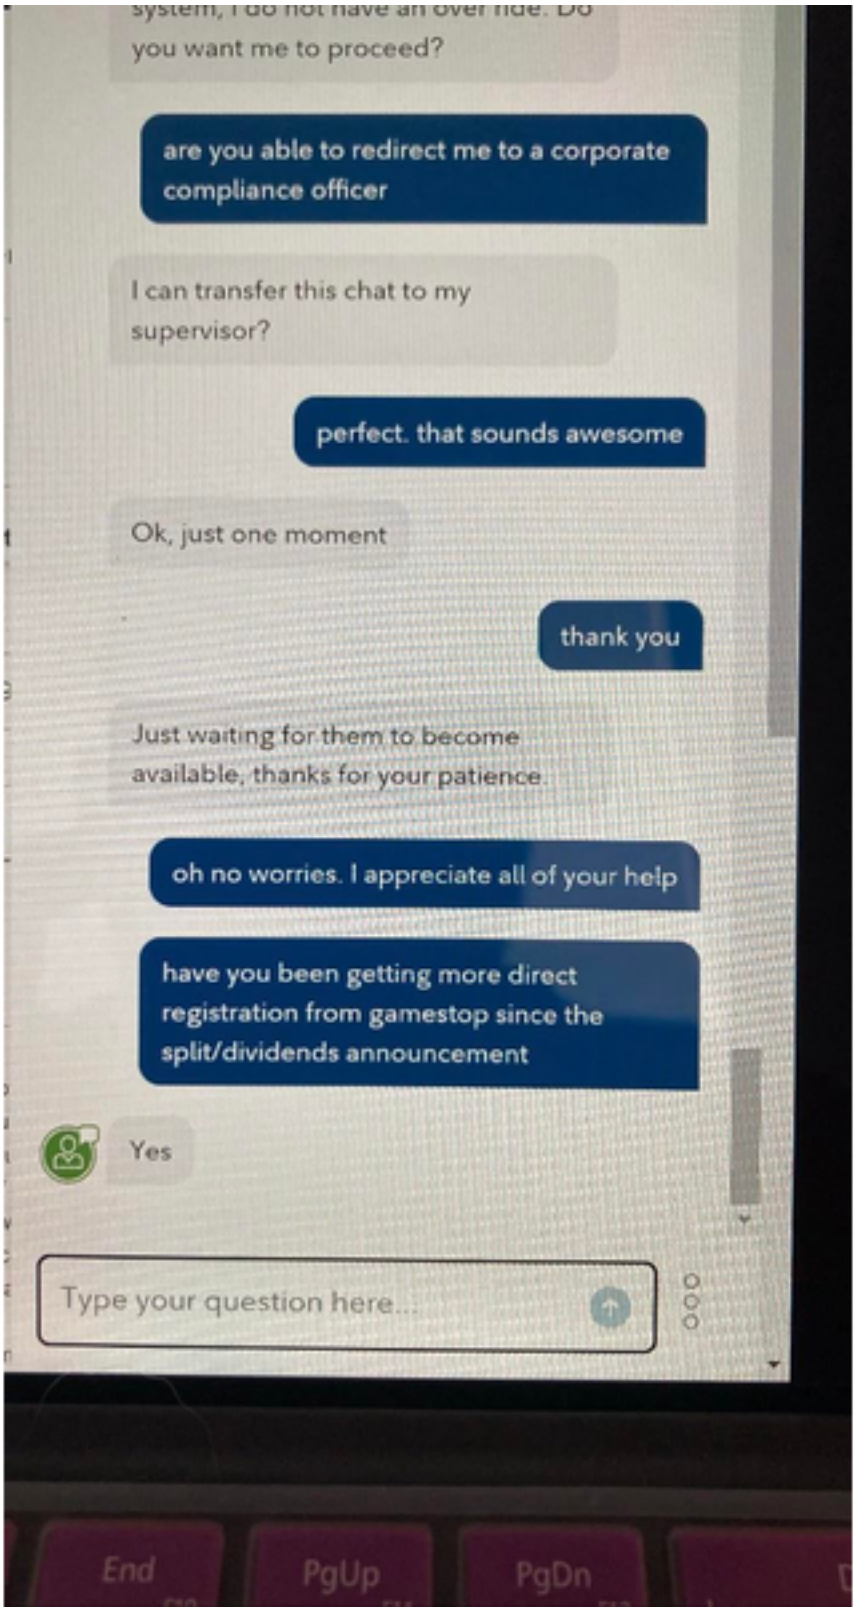
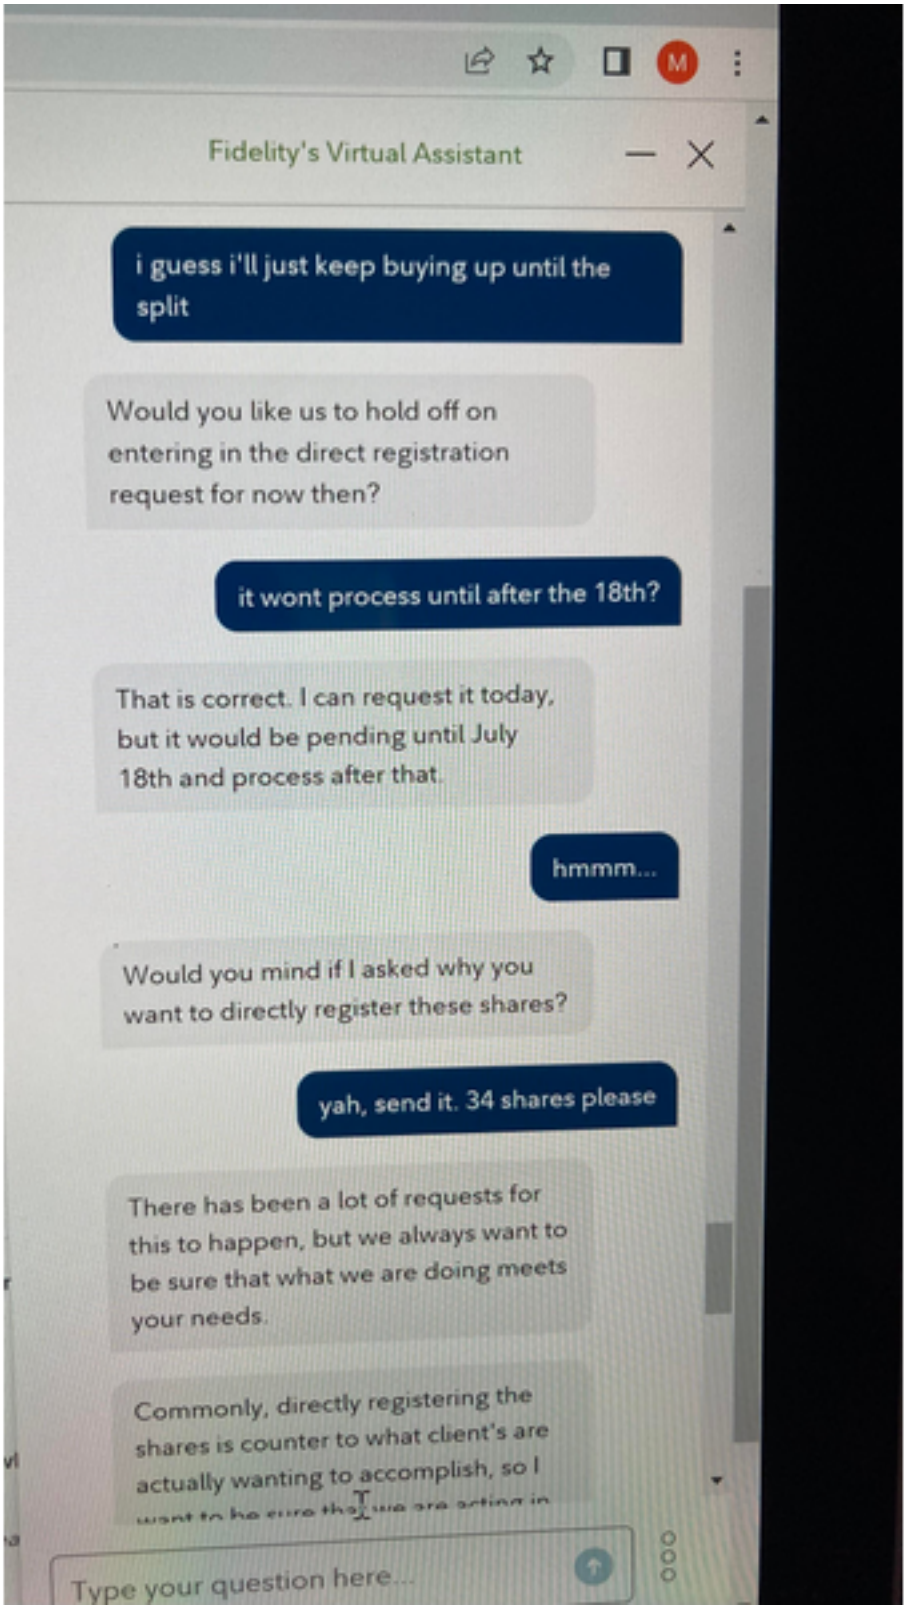
Title: Fudelity trying to DRS today.
Author: RamblinGamblin88
Created 2022-07-13 17:44:32 UTC
Permalink: /r/GME/comments/vy97r7/fudelity_trying_to_drs_today/
Url: https://www.reddit.com/gallery/vy97r7





Fidelity's Virtual Assistant
i guess i'll just keep buying up until the split Would you like us to hold off on entering in the direct registration request for now then?
it wont process until after the 18th?
That is correct. I can request it today, but it would be pending until July 18th and process after that.
hmmm...
Would you mind if I asked why you want to directly register these shares?
yah, send it. 34 shares please
There has been a lot of requests for this to happen, but we always want to be sure that what we are doing meets your needs.
Commonly, directly registering the shares is counter to what client's are actually wanting to accomplish, so I Type your question here...

Fidelity's Virtual Assistant
brokerage and institution will then get the shares to issues out to the shareholders.
To make sure I understand correctly then, are you saying that you feel there is a risk that a brokerage firm, like Fidelity in this instance, would not allocate the correct amount of shares post split?
correct
i would feel more comfortable having GME in computer share
I cannot say that I have ever heard of anyone experiencing this and can assure you that we are fully capable of allocating the shares correctly from splits or any other actions the issuer might take. However, I have this set up to complete since it is your decision to do this. Let me provide you some details and then once you confirm that you wish to proceed it will be done.

Fidelity's Virtual Assistant with so much uncertainty in the market and the inflation at 9.1%, everything is a risk
yes. 34 shares
Great, thank you for confirming. While I certainly agree that there are risks bound to be anywhere, would you mind sharing what you believe to be the risk of holding the shares here at Fidelity as opposed to having them registered directly to you at Computershare?
directly registered shares of GME will get the split/dividends, since GME will be issuing out a correct amount on their ends brokerage and institution will then get the shares to issues out to the shareholders.
To make sure I understand correctly then, are you saying that you feel there is a risk that a brokerage firm, like Fidelity in this instance, would not allocate the correct amount of shares post split?