Good afternoon Apes.

Just wanted to comment on just how amusing some of these posts are and thank you for them. Just as an FYI if you believe that the end is near, you might want to reevaluate. I would point to just how long AFTER the DOJ/SEC/FBI investigation into the 1929, 1984, 1987, 2001, and 2008 crashes that the actual congressional investigation took place and what came out of it (HINT: a long time, and absolutely nothing, actually the criminals got more wealthy). There are WAY too many very big names involved with this situation, with WAY too much money, and entire firms of legal representation. As I can see it, the only way things actually pops is IF there is a forced share recall. Currently there is not enough legal standing for Ryan Cohen to require one from the SEC without facing millions of dollars in lawsuits from the very same people that are being investigated. The same thing that was said in a famous movie is true now...We may have been early, but we are not wrong.

If you are hoping that the Compression will happen soon so you can go buy your Lambo... you might just want to buy another years worth of Ramen (maybe more). I hope for all our sakes I am incorrect, but when you read history of the corruption in the market you will notice a trend. That trend is; Corruption is discovered... Corruption takes a VERY long time to investigate, Charges are brought...the legality takes a VERY LONG TIME to work through the system, A fall person is chosen...and everyone else is left to walk into the sunset with ALL THE MONEY. If you have ANY faith in our current system...you are going to be sorely disappointed. Our system has NEVER worked when it comes to the Malignant Narcissists who control WallStreet and the FED. They have NEVER been held accountable through the current system. The ONLY way to fix the system is to GUT the system...and ENFORCE THE LAWS. Until we ELECT people who are willing to ensure this happens, you will NEVER get ANY meaningful change.

Rant over...Bring on the accusations of FUD...but before you do, please actually read about all the crashes that have taken place, and what was done after them. You might just learn something. Enjoy your hopium... It will compress, of that I am certain...but not yet...
