You're on your own now Gabe and some of us have been waiting. You're exposed, you're vulnerable, and you're ripe for the tanking.

Funny how time flies..

While most see the redemption as a rash decision..many of us prepare months ago when the paperwork was filed. You knew when the deal was originally made that you had but one job..and you failed.

So much for the memes..it's time to take gains from your mains. There's nothing that you can do to stop the losses coming. No international incidents, no fears/panic over Covid. Nothing. Back to square one..you've been returned to the pack.

Now..before you wake up today and tweet..before you spend the next couple of weeks trying to spin the narrative..just know that I and others will be on the other side of every trade. As the lights in your offices come on this morning and the stale coffee starts brewing the ■'s will start ringing. The emails will come pouring in. Countless numbers of others will seek to redeem and withdraw as well. By the end of the day at two favors will be recalled.

It's on you now. No cover, no shield, no extended credit.

You're weak. You're wide open.

Those covered losses will no longer be covered. Those hedges..unhedged. Only a matter of time before your complexly you're unhinged.

You can keep the ■'s..I've got the ■ & ■.

Last I checked GME @$170 starts to turn up the heat for you. GME @$184 increases a bit of pressure. Especially with a few of the earnings posted this week. Motherfucking leverage..that bitch cuts both ways.

What was it you once said...

#Reddit Traders exposed opportunities around short interest.

..what you left out was that you were funded to mine those interests.

...fuck...you're about to be one of the first of many to find out firsthand just how good some of us really are at playing games.

Serving that shit out the back of the yard, fuck your ■holds, I'm just playing my ■
