Prior to the DRS movement that's been happening for the last few weeks, I saw many more "bought more", or "buying the dip" posts. Now it's almost all "Transferred X to CS", and "DRS more shares today".

Just a reminder for those who can and still have money left, to keep buying, and buy through Computershare. (NOT FINANCIAL ADVICE, just an idea I'm throwing out there. Do your own research and take responsibility for your own investments.)

Trades through CS will go to the NYSE lit exchange so buying pressure will show up on the chart and it keeps shares out of the hands of the DTCC.

I'm not a financial advisor, just a random internet retard laughing at butt fruit and jacking my tits.
