Hundreds of millions of shares changed hands the past couple days alone. Something like 650 million between just Tuesday and Wednesday. RYan Cohen held under 10 million. His sale didn't make a dent in the share price. The idea of RC selling did bigger damage....The question to ask is how did the word get out so fast and by so many different sources that RC filed to sell? He's a short killer and this was just a play to hurt them even more. I don't like that retail could be holding the bag but is what it is. Is everyone now an RC hater because of this action?

Didn't he barely make a profit? He helped so many people with this move, why is no one talking about that? The share price was under $5 on August 1 and well after he bought in! Do the math. Who made bank all the way up to $30? SHF's?
