The image is a screenshot of a web-based portfolio page. At the top left, the word "Portfolio" is displayed in a bold, dark font. To the right of this, there are two links: "Hide Zero Balances" and "Export" with a downward arrow. Below these links, the text "Portfolio Value USD $5,192.06" is shown. A table with four columns follows: "Holdings", "Quantity", "Price", and "Market Value". The table contains one entry for "GAMESTOP CORP (GME) CLASS A COMMON" with a quantity of "135.351", a price of "$38.36" (marked with a green upward triangle and "As of 8/4/2022"), and a market value of "$5,192.06". To the right of the market value is a link "View Details" with a downward arrow. Below the table, there is a link "Add External Holdings" with a downward arrow. A large, thick, black handwritten "+95" is superimposed over the bottom half of the screenshot, partially covering the "Add External Holdings" link and the bottom of the table.
