Try to be totally honest with yourself when you answer this. I'd like to know the percentage of people who would settle for less now for their Gamestop shares against those who are prepared to wait for a better return.

You can explain your rationale if you'd like or if you can think of options other than the two presented that would be interesting to hear.

Elite athletes are great at getting themselves mentally prepared for challenges and this will be a challenge, perhaps the biggest of your life, so let's get ourselves mentally prepared.
