My theory on the split/dividend situation and why Ryan Cohen hasn't purchased the remaining float. I believe that after the split is announced they will also announce an employee stock compensation for the retail store workers. This is an area where GameStop has come up short and I believe that they are focused on fixing it. I believe that after the split they will purchase the remaining float for this program which is why Ryan Cohen hasn't purchased the remaining float yet. It would be the most beautiful checkmate ever!
