Does anyone have a link to DD or other information that shows us that naked shorting is happening in the market?

Sure, FTD's show that some shares expected to be located are not actually found, but that could be, er, accidental - is there anything more specifically concrete than that? Also, any links to laws/regulations that specifically ban it, or not?

Am pulling together some specific materials on GME and shorting, but if someone's done a good summary already or has links to stuff, that would help immensely.

I know, kind of obvious questions, but the answers are harder to find.....
