A good majority of posts in the past regarding options were always along the lines of "Only use options if you understand them", but when met with questions to expand upon them so that the "smoothe" brains can "understand" them as well, those commenters magically disappear without a trace.

Here's the thing, I used to believe that options were FUD because of "you're just giving money (premium) to the hedgies. This is true, but only if you buy super OTM options and/or FDs (weeklies). With the majority of apes being new to investing, with most investing for the FIRST time, last year, I believed it was better that apes stay away from options and simply buy and HODL shares, just as RC and GameStop did. With RC/GameStop announcing the official DRS count in their official SEC filings, this only reinforced my beliefs. However, if you take a step back and look at how options really work, it makes perfect sense to make use of this "hidden" card. After all, hedgies use them as well, so why can't retail? This is a zero sum game after all.

Here is how and why options in conjunction with DRS shares could potentially ignite the rocket to MOASS.

* Hedgies are in a predicament because they wrote a ton of naked (uncovered) call options thinking that the price of $GME would NEVER exceed the $20 mark. This backfired on them when a bunch of OG sub retards discovered Pandora's box aka $GME back in January of 2021 - They bought options regardless of price going up, down, or sideways

* After Robbinghood and other criminal brokerages turned off the buy button, apes realized that they could still acquire shares of $GME by purchasing ITM/ATM call options and EXERCISING them, which forced hedge funds to deliver 100 shares per contract of GameStop

* Hedge Funds did not expect nor have they ever experienced the true nature of our retardedness. They did not expect apes to buy shares and call options at any fucking price....up, down, sideways, or in your bum IT DID NOT AND STILL DOES NOT FUCKIN MATTER to APES. As cokerat cramer said, he's never seen a group of investors so unaffected by price before in his life.

* Because all the criminal brokerages, market makers, and banks sold so many fucking uncovered/naked calls, never expecting them to be exercised due to their greed, they are currently in this shit show. They are trying everything they possibly can to survive another day and prevent MOASS

* If apes continue to DRS and lock the float, and in combination purchase ITM/ATM calls a few months/years out that have a high probability of hitting ITM AND exercise these shares, Shitadel and friends will be FORCED to produce/cover (purchase) REAL shares of GameStop on the open market, thus raising the underlying price of the stonk - Basically, options only work if you plan to EXERCISE them because there are SO MANY CALL OPTIONS, that if every single one of them were to be exercised, there would be over 9000% more shares than available in the actual float.

If you have any counter-arguments, please share them with me, so we can continue with these options investigations.

TLDR; Options ONLY work if you end up ITM (in the money) and EXERCISE them, thus forcing SHF to deliver/purchase REAL shares of $GME to you. If you buy useless FDs aka weeklies or any FAR OTM calls without the intention nor possibility of exercising, then you are simply giving free money to SHF.

Buy, DRS, HODL, and research options and stop being complacent. Take control of your own destiny.
