The title says it, she can randomly see the future, either to me, to people we know, but very few times for her. She told my sister-in-law that we will have our first nephew soon, boom, she's pregnant that month. She saw our friend getting married to her first love (who doesn't know her), boom, yes they are married now. She saw someone will have an accident and boom, accident happened, and a lot freakin more..and yes she is telling me this before it happened. and yes she told us many warnings to be safe from very detailed accidents and where it will happen.

Now, what does it do for our beloved stonk. I told you there are only few things that she saw for herself, but two things are very important. One, she will travel the world (she became a flight crew even if she's only 5'2), Two, she saw one day she will be standing beside the owners of that airline, the biggest in the world by the way, to welcome its new employees. The second is impossible because her position is the lowest of the grades and crews even high grades don't do that. To cut the story short, she got pregnant, we had the cutest baby, on her maternity leave, November, she was invited to work temporarily in field in HR dept..then came last month, amongst all supervisors, managers, she is the only one chosen to stand beside the company owners to welcome new employees. She saw it and it happened. She told me about it from 2014, and she said that will be her LAST JOB as an employee. BOOM! GME TO THE MOON!

Ape rocket is already launching, and I can smell already the paper where her resignation is printed!!!

Just wanted to add more: She saw we had a nice house, car, in a nice country, and that I will have a company, like 10 years ago. It used to be impossible, both of us are barely surviving as expats today, but GME will turn it into reality. So Buy, Hold, DRS. WE ARE NEAR. ■■■
