

Title: This is a comment from Youtube under the vid of Vlad getting roasted. Was RC suggesting we were heading for hyperinflation like Venezuela with his "it takes money to buy whiskey" tweet?

I didn't know I could relate with Tenev. As someone who lived in Venezuela with hyperinflation I also saw people buying whiskey to hold the currency value and using the chicken price as an economical indicator instead of gas as people do here in the US. After experiencing that from a young age my interest in economics rise to help the average person how to money works. I hope build a finance career in a future to help others as trillionaire mindset is doing with me.
