So I been trying to figure out the end game and how to make sense of all of this fuckery. We all know the system is rigged against retail. Now I think these manipulators know this isn't going away. I'm sure they known for a year now. So my question is for the lawyers here lol. What's stopping these Hedgefks from shorting GME until they run out of their investors money and in the meantime because it's all under LLC. Taking their private money to buy up and DRS as much GME as they can? I mean that's the only thing that makes sense in y they keep going. They know at this point they are completely fukd. What do they have to lose? They short the shit out of a stock until bankrupted blame it on one of their brokers then become billionaires as individual investors by buying the stock? We already know the politicians don't go after their own and neither do any other government entities.
