Not FUD. I am a low xxxx holder who started buying gme in the midst of last year's chaos. I came for the squeeze stayed once we got fucked over. And have been buying dips for a year.

I whole heartedly believe the shorts never covered and don't plan on ever covering. I believe that the float has been sold multiple times over.

Im not a complete smooth brain. I work as a licensed advisor at a financial institution. I would consider it more of a sales role. I follow along with the God tier dd but certainly not knowledgeable enough to do my own.

I guess my question is this. In this big internet world why haven't there been any leaks. Anonymous gme insider sharing a vote count. Disgruntled citadel employee telling us how fucked they are. Something? I would love a trust me bro.

The dd is legit. This is going to work out if we keep going and we will.

But give me a little hype train trust me bro. ■ ■ ■
