For anyone familiar with biology, there are activators and inhibitors. I have started to notice that DD and Speculation almost always focus on activators for the MOASS eg. stock market crash. I reckon that people don't discuss the factors that inhibit MOASS because they don't want to be labeled a shill or express any sliver of fatigue. So, for the record, I fully support DRS and HODL till the end of time. However, I realize that hedgies are fairly intelligent SOBs. IM(very aerodynamically brained)O, we might not see MOASS until the lawsuit with BCG is over. What are your thoughts about possible inhibitors of MOASS?
