For the last 8 years, I have been playing the binding of Isaac. For the people who don't know this game. It's about fighting through different levels, every level deeper in the game makes it harder for the player to win, with new items, enemies and information. If you die, you start all the way over with the only thing left... the things you learned. For 8 years I have been respawning in this world time after time. Getting back stronger.

Now I'm almost a year deep into gme. First with a small position. but the deeper I got, the more I learned and the stronger my gme position became, the price dropped significantly without a reason? I bought more. Information getting censored? yes, bought more. News with false information getting published? oh yes, I bought more, to the point where I went all in.

And I'm not backing down. I'm here to stay till I have all my achievements unlocked in this game.
