I come with you a thought I had today. After seeing RC's tweet on Friday asking us to help the company. I DRS'd the last little bit of shares I had on Sunday night. I looked at computershare today expecting the new shares but nothing yet, this was at about 12:30pm EST. I saw the price go up on GME right after this from trading sideways for a couple hours. I then check my computershare account at 2:00pm and yup, there are my shares! It seems during that time is when my broker fulfilled the transfer, presumably having to find all the real shares (probably on the open market). All the shares that got DRS'd Friday-Sunday came through at the same time. I've noticed the price of GME has been jumping up every Wednesday-Thursday around the same time (2:00pm) I'm not sure if anybody has pointed this out, if it has, I'll remove this post. Also Happy 7/41!!
