I placed a market buy for GME through computershare on Friday after close. This is my first non-broker purchase. According to the site the order can take 3-5 days to go through. Does anyone know if computershare buys typically go through on a certain weekday, or is it more just random? It would be nice if it could go through on this small dip, but I'm feeling like it's out of my control. Any info on this is appreciated, or if you can share how long it took for your computershare market buy to be complete I'd appreciate it. Thanks in advance!
