

Title: Is there a gme related sub for the people that want to get more involved with the nft/gaming aspect instead of just the stock?

Don't get me wrong I love the stock. Gme to the moon! I just wanna get more involved and learn more about nft games and start playing them. I think that will help our community grow the most is when the people not involved in the stock start playing the games and start using immutablex and stuff. So if you have any good information on anything out right now in that area I would love to learn about it.
