To start off, I'm an OG January ape that sold all of his other investments to buy GME.

Obviously I bought because of FOMO, and I was pumped because I thought I was going to make some money. Little did I know, shortly after I bought in at 290 it dropped to 50 for about two weeks. Although I wanted to cry, I did not sell.

Personally, I am up to my nipples in debt. I'm living off credit cards and credit lines. I've been struggling to make ends meet and get out of debt. I haven't sold.

I've spent this entire year learning more about the stock market and how blatantly corrupt it is. I am literally angry at how fucked the entire system is.

I sold some things a couple months ago and bought 10 more shares. I'm saving up to buy another 2-3 in the next week or so.

I've endured this entire fucking circus from the beginning and I'm not fucking leaving.

I hodl for all of you. I hodl for change. I hodl to help strangers in need. I hodl to help my family. I hodl for life changing money.

I hodl until phone numbers.

Call me dumb, I do. Either way, I hodl.

Thanks for listening. Love you all.
