What are the chances in your minds, opinions, and retardationisms that our beautiful company GameStop and our beautiful stock GME finally at long last blast off this summer?

I know no dates. I'm not asking for dates and I'm not predicting one either. I'm just asking what you're "feeling" is.

In my retarded and smoothed ass opinion, I find it IMMENSELY hard to imagine this continues on beyond the summer. Everything we've seen from the stock & crypto markets plummeting, the situation in China worsening, the daily reverse repos increasing, the housing bubble about to burst, Melvin and Tiger shutting down and being down more than 50%, Ken The Mayo Man Griffin in an interview blaming retail for taking away Teacher pensions, to even the SEC itself making "sketch cawllmedy" videos spreading fud about how retail doesn't do research or DD and not to invest in "meme stocks."

Everything that's gone on the past couple months makes me "feel" like the end is legit near. I really want to believe that by the end of summer, apes will finally have the high ground.

What say you?
