So lately i seen people post about how some brokers dont find gme stocks to computershare to transfer them for DRS, this might be me going to far down the rabbit hole, but could it be most the shares is either registered or simply borrowed away so its impossible to get them?

Some brokers still get the stocks sendt and registered, but others computershare simply dont get hold of them and its no explernation for it from the brokers that should provide them.

So could my Wild conspiracy be right, that its no shares left to register and those who can be registered isnt in the ownership of the brokers and the buyers, but simply borrowed away?
