

Title: Can a twatter user contact Gamestop'a SMRT and sharing my suggestion please?

Author: FrankosmellsFUD

Created 2022-05-11 06:04:44 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/un2y3n/can_a_twitter_user_contact_gamestopa_smrt_and/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/un2y3n/can\_a\_twitter\_user\_contact\_gamestopa\_smrt\_and/

I would like to suggest, an opportunity and a great possibility of success, the following:

###Gamestop Originals

What is that?

It's a streaming service but with one fundamental difference - you stream Game related content.

Huh?

DVDs and Bluray's come with extras, commentary, deleted scenes and so on.

Games also should come with extras similar to films. In fact good ol'YouTube has interviews, documentaries and if you're lucky behind the scenes of a game being made.

So what I mean by game related, I don't just mean extras for the game your own, that's just a category.

There will also be preexisting game related films provided, if it isn't too costly to attain the use of these films on the platform

And more importantly, a Gamestop Original would be a film/ short/ TV show(series/one-off)/ interview/ behind the scenes or making of documentaries/ announcement video and anything else you can think of, that either promotes a specific game or gives delighted customers a whole new viewing experience.

I'll break each one of the above down into ideas to give a more clear understanding:

###These are just ideas to showcase the usefulness of this suggestion

- #Film

-Twisted Metal the movie. No this isn't Death Race, this is Twisted Metal, following the Twisted Metal 2 story arc. The film is animated. It comes with screen selection (ever watched Black Mirror's film 'Bandersnatch'?) where you choose which of the twelve characters story arcs you want to watch. In return you get several endings to the same film.

Yes this could be a costly project but it would show reel artistic talent, promote Twisted Metal, potentially spurring Sony to demand another title to be released.... Anyways I don't understand marketing only what gets me excited.

Another example could be a live action House of the Dead, a story of a bio weapon having been released over NYC and the protagonist is a secretary to a Wall St Mogul, who has to fight through an entire tower block full of zombified Wall St employees, to get to ground zero and escape NYC.

- #Short

-This could cover many things here, from game developers releasing extra content that adds to the games stories, think Alan Wake, to animated comedies (Fornight themed Rick n Morty episode? ) to short live action films such as Half Life - Freeman (a comedy plot about the mysterious valve number 3)

- #TV Show

-We've got a Halo series currently, I also know of several Halo related animated series and films. We also have Witcher....

I know I'm tired of seeing new titles every 2 years, but a Call of Duty series could be pretty damn good to watch if it's done right.

Another example could be a Gears of War series or two part episode one-off show.

- #Interview

-From preexisting interviews to Gamestop exclusive interviews of IP creators, Game Studios etc.

Think Lorne Lanning interviews of his story behind getting into games and creating Odd World.

Think an exclusive Gamestop interview with Hideo Kojima about his writing process and how he directs his stories into his games.

Can also promote content of you tubers who already have a following, such as Yong Yea.

This is an inexhaustive source of potential

- #Behind the scenes or making of documentaries

-Again preexisting or Gamestop firsts: tours of game studios (think Rockstar - probably just looks like a bank these days)

There's a guy on YouTube who works with a community who hack cameras in games so they can go 'out of bounds' to understand level design and find Easter eggs - I mean his videos could be shared here too or Gamestop gets studio access to the dev team who will show first hand a game level and explore it to showcase level design.

This can also showcase the art design, talk of the writing processes, music production... And so on.

- #Announcement video

-This would be a promotional section for upcoming game releases, film releases, Gamestop Original releases, Gamestop NFT/ Merchandise releases and so on.

- #Anything else you can think of

-Well this is for the community to decide as well as the Gamestop teams who would be involved in such a platform.

#No this isn't a Netflix replacement.

This isn't as a means to become a film, TV series only streaming service.

It's more like a streaming service with film and TV as a feature but also loads of other content too, content you don't get on any streaming service anywhere else.

Imagine you buy a new game, let's say Zelda BOTW2 and with it comes an exclusive making of video code that can be viewed on the Gamestop Originals platform that will have a documentary like clip of the Nintendo studio working on the title as well as animated shorts that add to the game experience.

Another idea, Alan Wake 2. Remedy studio tour or an interview with Sam Lake, or clips of Easter eggs or hidden clues for gamers to find in the new title.

##Gamestop Originals - a place for game related content and so much more.

Thanks for your time.