About 18 Months since I Posted on Stonk about my father passing. Maybe you remember and maybe you don't. It was the week after when GME spiked to 300 plus range. My portfolio sky rocketed like many of yours. over the years of GME I bought and sold for a long time and made a good profit to support my family. I had no idea what the fight was for 2 of them until Robinhood didn't let me sell.

My mother and father saw my success and supported me , buying 5 shares.

I still have those 5 now 20 shares in my mother's name plus the amount I never sold in my portfolio. I hold those in honor of my father who fought 9 lives before he was called home.

Long story short. He cheated death so many times from the time grandpa held a gun to his head and said get out to the time he climbed a volcano and got stuck. Getting blown out to sea and swept away by the currents are many of his death cheats. Running for his life In turkey when the tanks rolled in. He fought and beat cancer stage 4 only to die of a Widowmaker. He truly had a silver screen epic adventure. One may have thought he was in LOTR live action had it been another world.

Not here for votes or anything, just needed to put something down on paper because I miss my best friend. I miss our adventures.

It's time to make new ones.

My portfolio now consists of so many assets including crypto , LRC, Eth, , Apple and more. Thanks dad for your support.
