

Title: Does a gme dividend split work? Doing what Tesla did and Gates didn't close his massive short position.

Author: No-Fox-1400

Created 2022-04-23 12:48:04 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/ua4pgn/does_a_gme_dividend_split_work_doing_what_tesla/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/ua4pgn/does_a_gme_dividend_split_work_doing_what_tesla/

So how is this supposed to work if Tesla already did it and Gates still has a massive short position? A dividend split doesn't seem to actually force anyone to do anything of consequence.

Is it possible that the tesla was sanctioned by the DTCC (5x is acceptable range based on past events going 5x-6x traditionally)? Is that why they didn't raise the capital requirements to almost 50% for tesla like they did with GME that ultimately shut off the buy button?

I think it is entirely possible we are being turned to Tesla as an example because that was a DTCC sanctioned. If the DTCC doesn't like the the gain rate, they can raise capital margin so no one can afford to clear any trades through the lit markets. If they do like it, it can remain the same. We are being setup.