Ok, across the subs we have a shit ton of content that exposes deep corruption in our financial system surrounding GME especially (namedrop for the bot, lol)

With all the hype around Musk's buyout, I came across Project Veritas, an organisation that seems committed to exposing fraud and corruption.

I have not extensively looked into this organisation, whether it has a political stance, or anything else.

However, it seems at first glance to be an organisation with extensive reach and the right intentions.

Is it worth reaching out with the metric ton of DD and seeing if there is anything they can do with it?

Many thanks apes.
