I'd like to share my thoughts and ask for yours opinions my beloved ■ so as the DRS process is a bit slower than expected why don't we play the game with them money? HF and all financial institutions don't play with their money, Wall Street and others spending our retirement money e.t.c we all know the game so why don't we apply for loans from banks and buy as much shares as we can and send them to infinity pool by DRSing and that way the end comes much quicker? At current price not talking if it drops even more like below $80 would be stupid not to take such opportunities and load our sacks with more shares as we know the price is wrong. We believe in Gamestop we believe in papa R.C himself and I'm personally want to be involved in this by playing at my best. FEDs are printing billions every minute, institutions are not for our interest, SEC doing fuck all to protect us as retail investors so why not spend their easy printed money and get what is ours?

Obviously I'm retarded as fuck and by any means this is not a financial advise but that's what I'm ready to do as i spend all of my family's savings and is hard to watch that sort of discount..
