Short hedge funds aren't in the business of telling you their plans, but they'd love to know yours. Make their Tuesday a little more hectic by not broadcasting your intentions via stop losses.

And since it's Wednesday, what better day than today to DRS some $GME shares?

And while you're at it, if it works for you, maybe pick up a few more shares today via Computershare. Already registered that way and you can avoid the middleman.

On with the day!
