Hello all,

It has come to my attention that many apes are putting money in LRC and IMX rather than GameStop.

I am really really confused right now. If GameStop is going to 72m per share, why even bother with investing in tokens that might 2x or even 3x?

It makes no mathematical sense to put any money in tokens when GME will hit literally dozens of millions PER SHARE.

What are apes doing? Any explanation? Besides the "I'm making money while I wait for super squeeze!" Shouldn't apes instead keep buying GME and DRSing? Just genuinely confused.

Also, the M word is banned. And it was also removed from the sub description. I guess people here are realizing something. Awesome!!!
