Software engineers and project managers in the tech industry know what's coming - and it's revolutionary.

The move to web3.0 isn't prophetic. It's not just likely. It's not a strategy with a million planned, structured steps.

Web3 & verifiable asset transactions on public ledgers is the undeniable future.

50+ y/o software engineers, trained in a profession which internalizes deep, structural and institutional change with 20+ y/o professional software engineers who're (contractions lol) reminded they have a responsibility to affect deep institutional change as responsible members of society know that web3 is coming and GME are the FIRST ADOPTERS of revolutionary tech with the potential to change the face of not just general asset swapping, but the global financial industry as a whole.

And guess what? They're all fucking loaded

Cross-generational and principled investors are holding the float....

WE FUCKING WON. HODL.

NOT FINANCIAL ADVICE. OBVIOUSLY.
