So TDA has the price change on my account but just showing original quantity of GME shares prior to split and price reduction. Was advised during call that they have not received the shares yet and they might not have them before the weekend. Have cash account and recorded conversations with them on my shares not borrowed or lent out. Also was told I would receive my physical shares not value since I own them with cash account. Was advised my account will reflect all new shares by monday!!!

Sounds Fishey to me..... Thoughts?? Insights!!
