I've seen all kinds of fuckery, by now. But this last month has been something well beyond posts getting removed and shadowbans. This is--coordinated. And often, I think they work in teams or groups. They will isolate you. Compliment you. Ask you questions to make you feel important. They will pretend to be friendly and on the same side as you. They will feed your desire to make the world better by making it seem like you're in some awesome club or on some special top secret mission. Honestly, some people among them are shills and some are apes. It's impossible to tell which ones, and they like that uncertainty. They love that they can distract you from the plain old boring corruption and fill your head with wild theories that have ZERO proof or evidence. And because you're smart, you'll say, well, MAYBE it's true. That's when they have you.

Then, they will start casting doubt. On everyone. RC is just the beginning. Adam Aron, they'll attack him as a person without cause. They'll tear down every friend the apes have in real life--every single advocate for better markets and integrity in oversight. All the good DD wrinkle brains and people out there who risked their livelihoods and lives to tell the truth, they will attack them, too. Big time. But it will be subtle. They will try to make you suspicious of everyone and everything slowly. Throw shade. Cast doubt. They will make it seem like they know something that they don't--like they are protecting you. They are not. Protect yourselves. Do NOT let yourself get sucked in and dragged into the shadows. Stay connected to your retarded ape family, and step back every once in a while. The FUD campaign is not loud. It's quiet as fuck, and it's discrete.

It's teams of shills working hard at fucking with all the best DD people, the most honest advocates for this community, and anyone out there (yes, even RC), who they can make you doubt. Don't fucking fall for it. You know better. Go eat a crayon and get your ass back out here into the light. If any of this sounds familiar, message me. If not, just remember, YOU can only trust yourself. You know the way. You've always known. Buy and hodl. Eat crayons. The end.
