all those shares in germany are gone again because it was handled like a normal stock split and there are not enough real stocks for everyone.

And now watch the SEC and other regulators do nothing about it because clown world ■
