I'm sorry it's a longer post.. Please cross post to SS if you feel it's okay and needs some more eyes. I just wanted to say thank you to everyone here on this side..

Thank you for being reasonable human beings. Thank you for actually having real conversations. Thank you for not ripping people apart on Reddit, Twitter, or anywhere for asking simple questions or even saying something completely stupid. Thank you for being down to earth and accepting of EVERYONE, even the damn shills. Thank you for not being disrespectful and hateful towards one another. Thank you for being actual human beings.

I'm saying this because I've been following both the stocks and there's a massive difference in the way people treat each other. The other stock is all about drama, threats, name-calling, dragging other peoples family members into the drama etc, over simple little things. Somebody says their own opinion on a price target or whatever and they get viciously attacked at all angles. I've seen people get doxxed even. I'm talking all year. All fucking year it's been constant harassment and shit from a boat load of people at the other stock. Not against me, but I see it EVERY SINGLE DAY with other people. It's absolutely disgusting the stuff I read sometimes over there and on Twitter. It's getting to a point where I think some of them actually lost their minds. I wanna say one thing, I have trolled the other stock myself when it comes up here, and as of now, I'm not going to anymore. There's going to 100% be suicides from all this when everything is said and done and it doesn't go the way some people think it will. I don't want something dumb and troll-like that I said to be the last thing someone reads before doing something to themselves. Even though I probably wouldn't know because this is on the internet, it's just that feeling deep down IF I started hearing about somebody or people offing themselves, I wouldn't be able to live with myself knowing I may have contributed in the slightest way by trolling or whatever. I know we joke around about the other stock and stuff but honestly, I think we should just leave it be. It's getting to a point now where I almost think some of them are sick in the head after this year. It's consumed them. There's so much anger and hate on that side towards each other and that's a recipe for disaster and it's already playing out and has been playing out all year. It's getting to a point where I'm literally worried for so many of them. ACTUAL DD comparing the two is totally okay if it's actual information being compared and everyone just keeps it civil in the comments without all the bashing, etc. Let's be kind to everyone, even those who may or may not be on the wrong side. I know I can't be the only one concerned about the well-being of a shit ton of people on the other side. We have a good understanding here of what is going on and have been pretty zen all year long. Let's just leave it at that because this is going to turn ugly once this all happens and all those crazy angry hateful people don't get what they want. The picture they painted for themselves is absolutely gross. One search of the other stocks hashtag on Twitter will show you just how disgusting these people are being and have been ALL year.

We all said we're going to do good in this world once this all happens and everything is said and done. I know most in this sub will in some way, shape or form do something good, even if it's something small like buying a homeless person a meal. Tons of people have already been doing AMAZING things by ordering Gamestop employees food, buying toys and games for kids, etc. It's so amazing to see those posts! Doing good is also being kind to one another, even in a disagreement. That is NOT happening at the other side. All I see in between the memes posted over there and on Twitter etc, is spewing hate, and some of it to the point it's absolutely sickening and even worthy of police getting involved, hell, even the FBI because some attacks are personal as fuck. I want everybody to win, but the sad reality is that won't happen. I know there's people who hold both and that's okay. Everyone made their own choices, but to spew the disgusting hate towards one another for ones choices or opinions is not right. We haven't self imploded over here and I'm so happy about that but we can still do a little better also by not engaging in the stock hate and bashing. Let's just leave it be and what happens, happens.

Honestly, I could tear up right now knowing there's so many people out there that are so fucking hateful towards one another. I don't mean the simple trolling and shit, I mean actual hateful things, and even personal things being used against each other there. We all made a choice, and some of us will have made the wrong one. That's life. None of us actually know what the fuck is going to happen, NONE of us. Anyways, again, thank you to everyone here for keeping it pretty cool all year long and making this sub, and GME Twitter a nice place to be and interact on. It's honestly a different world here compared to when I read stuff on the other stock.

Be kind. Have a good day everyone!
