The reason why off exchanges even exist in the US market is to keep the federal and investment banking mafia to continue and kill any true price discovery. Why? because they'll be caught without pants if these short % exists today without off exchanges. They literally profit off of entering short position in whatever stock they want and steer it up or down when they fucking want. I'm never investing in US markets except for GME. After knowing what we know, I doubt that I'm the only one. Anyway, thanks for listening to my monday afternoon rant. I'mma go find someone else's ears to rant about house prices.
