It's really easy to DRS one share. Let that one transfer smoothly. Then transfer the rest and they're in your account in 3 days.

Dude. No. How is anything of what I'm saying, a bad thing? Initial DRS takes awhile to receive the initial Letter in the mail. Like 3 weeks. Or, if you answer the personal security questions right away correctly (I was not successful, as they asked me which county my parents lived in, and they had just sold their home that month so I guessed the wrong county), you can access your account within a week (my partner was successful with answering their security questions) — after that, DRSing the rest takes 3-4 days for them to show in your account.
