I had 3 GME shares drs'd... and now that the split happened (now 12 beautiful shares) and the price is lower id like to get more.

I'm not super educated on all this so bear with this smooth brian.

I've read if buying through computer share directly you don't get the shares at the price you put the order in at.

So at this point with everything going on, would it be best to just say fuck it on the price and get more through cs or is it safe to buy more through fudely and drs them after.

My other questions is.. when the time comes and I want to sell a few. How is that done on cs? I've seen people say its easy but haven't seen an actual explanation on how its done and I tried searching cs but i still am not sure how that works and I sure as fuck dont want to be figuring it out when that time comes.

Thats it. Have a beautiful fucking day and let the rocket launch soon!
