Let's be honest with each other here. All of us know that gme rocketing insert rocket emoji is coming like a tsunami hitting Thailand, and we all diamond hand the living hell out of our shares.

However, we are still reliant on the different brokers (for the shares that are not DRS'ed) for them to not freeze your account, sell your shares for you or do some trickery tricks. We are going to make millions, and we need to know that those millions are safe and that no accounts are getting flagged etc. when taking profits on 5 of your 300 shares (just so you have a couple of tendies in the bank).

So how are you questioning your brokers and banks to make sure no one fucks you over wen GME rockets like a bad boy and SHF gets fuuuuuuuuk?
