Soooooooo I was about to place an order when this dawned on me- if people were to route their orders through a dark pool and have no effect on price then apes could continue to enjoy discounts galore while gathering shares. Of course I love what IEX is doing and generally people should be using IEX. But in this case having the price drop is not such a bad thing with the dividend/split and marketplace around the corner. I have found myself personally rooting for lower prices all week.

Shower me with accolades now. Or recommend the sturdiest dayware helmetry. GME is all my accounts.
