This is probably not a big deal, but I've been aware of the merger for months and have even read (not going to take advantage) of the free financial planning stuff they've marketed.

I just want some opinions on whether this will/ could dramatically or adversely affect my GME holdings.

Also, does anyone know why a trade would get rejected if it is set as a limit sell with a single share. I placed a limit sell yesterday for $1,000,005.10... because for some reason even my commission free trades require $5.10.

Anyway. End rant.
