

Title: Price movement post-splividend.

Author: Woody-ddit

Created 2022-07-20 16:32:08 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/w3qshq/price_movement_postsplividend/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/w3qshq/price_movement_postsplividend/

TLDR : probably nothing will happens for GME in the very short term post-splividend. It is safe to say it will probably take some time to unfold, as seen on the price movement that happened on Overstock & Tesla. It took Overstock 136 days from announcement to reach its highest close post-split and Tesla 153 days (or 450).

edit : when I say probably, I don't mean it to be FUD or anything. No one actually knows what is going to happen. I just shared my view based on some data I found.

Hype is around the corner, and I've board this train as much as all of you. However, I always like to have a feel of where the train is going.

So I went into the 2 stocks split we usually use as reference : Overstock & Tesla.

\----- Overtstock Timeline -----

April 06 : split announcement. Price : $5.50

May 19 (+43 days) : payment date. Price : $17.87

August 20 (+136 days from announcement) : highest close. Price : $122.32

\----- Tesla Timeline -----

August 11 : split announcement. Price : $274.88

August 31 (+20 days) : payment date. Price : $498.32

January 11 of 21' (+153 days from announcement) : highest close. Price : $886.24

November 04 of 21' (+450 days from announcement) : new highest close. Price : $1229.91

So, after split, there may not be any particular price movement. You know... up, down, or sideways. But given time, it may start to get some interesting price movement. Time has always been on investors side for those who wait long enough. Some of GME investors have waited many months (year?) to be there, few months or a year won't change much. But it is still a good thing to have a clear mind about what's to come.

It adds nothing new, strategy for the stock is still the same : love it, support it, hold it and DRS it.