I arrived at work this morning and got an email notification about a deposit into my trading account and I thought nothing of it because I get those all the time when I fund my trading account.

But I thought I'd check anyway and there they were!

All my rightful 735 GMEs! I'm calling those rat bastards first thing on Monday to DRS those as well.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you sexy bastards for providing me with words of support and direction. Every single one of you were aces!

And I'd like to thank one particular user who reached out to me in private to let me know that they were in almost an exact same situation with Scotia iTrade and lended their support and strength to me.

They let me know right away that their rightful GMEs were deposited into their account yesterday morning. That particular user sent off an email to the compliance officer on Wednesday and I sent mine off on Thursday. So, I figured there was a good chance I'll see mine on Monday morning, but there they were!

There were no communication from Scotia iTrade at all to the other user nor to me. The shares just appeared. So, we have no way of knowing whether it were the emails to the compliance officer that made the shares appear or if it was just a coincidence.

But at this point, I don't care. I'm DRS'ing those shares as well come Monday morning, which will cost me another $100USD, but at this point, I don't care.

Then I'm done with Scotia iTrade. I'm not looking back. What they put me and the other user through was pure and utter bullshit.

And I'd like to also give my thanks to Big Dave himself, /u/dlauer. Even after I sent off my email, I thought it was an exercise in futility and all hope was lost and I had been screwed out of 735 shares, which represents 2 years of my part time evening job's pay. But his reply calmed my mind and resolve.

(Automod removed my post because it contained a link to his reply in another sub)

Thank you again, ladies and gents!

Edit : I just checked my voicemail. I rarely ever do because most are just recordings of scam calls, but there was a call yesterday late afternoon from one of the customer service reps I had spoken to about the missing shares and he said, "You should see your shares either by the close of business hours today or early Monday. It turned out that the clearing place had your shares after all. Good bye, [doilookpail]."

But these are the same jokers who told me that GameStop should have sent a Due Bill to Computershare for my dividend share and on another call, they told me that on July 11th when I called to initiate the DRS transfer is when I gave up my rights as a stockholder of record on July 18th. I don't care. I'm DRS transferring those shares out of their mangy, grubby hands.

Thank you again, all you beautiful people! All you guys rock!
