

Title: GME should aquire KOSS. Keep the existing consumer, utility and accessory lines of product. Then pump a little money into the R&D; of an in-house gaming line of audio products. This seems right up RC's alley. He's got pillows, now it's just 60s music

Author: ComradeKachow

Created 2022-03-07 04:54:35 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/t8hfc1/gme_should_aquire_koss_keep_the_existing_consumer/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/t8hfc1/gme_should_aquire_koss_keep_the_existing_consumer/

I'm the smoothest brain there is, but stick with me here.

- KOSS has a total outstanding float of less than 10mil shares, the public float is less than 5mil shares.
- RC is playing the basket swap game, of which we believe KOSS is a member
- KOSS has a market cap under 65mil. For 70 mill RC can fuck the shorts in the basket and aquire a wealth of industry leading R&D; in the audio space. Shorts force closing on KOSS in the event of a buyout should move other stocks in the basket upwards
- Gamestop, as far as I know, aside from things like clothing/keychains, doesn't manufacturer any gaming hardware like headsets.
- GME has a thicccc pile of federal reserve notes. Over a billion in the bank.

With today's RC Venture's announcement I think something like this could be a possibility.

As an investor in the stock/company, it's something I think should be done.

But whadda I know. I welcome comments and critiques.

Requisite: DRS DRS DRS DRS DRS DRS DRS

Edit: it should say utility in the title