

Title: I've posted this in another thread as a response to a comment but what if retail completely stopped buying all day and let the HF's play with their dicks and drop the price as low as possible.

Author: Present-Evidence-905

Created 2022-01-10 17:32:02 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/s0ph59/ive_posted_this_in_another_thread_as_a_response/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/s0ph59/ive\_posted\_this\_in\_another\_thread\_as\_a\_response/

Then at the end of the day retail piles in and buys the beaten down GME price? Buying the stock through out the day and letting them trade it sideways and slightly down let's them lose the least or even make money. Would this make them start to cover and make it easier for them or would it cause massive daily losses? Or just set your orders at their buy walls, today's is obviously 120. As soon as it hit 120 there was shitdel with 5900 shares at 120.

I'm sure they'd catch on quick and change tactics but I hate the thought of letting them make money trading the stock sideways and down.

Am I completely retarded or does this make some sense?