Govt: "Illegal racketeering is crime."

Banks: "We will create schemes to double our money in 30 years and call it mortgage."

Govt: But my lord, is it legal?

Banks: "I WILL MAKE IT LEGAL"

A little backstory, I left my house long time ago and sometimes I feel so nostalgic about it remembering my childhood. But the thought that makes me suffocate that I can't go to that place anymore. It only exists in my memories now, and I don't own that place in real life anymore.

Recently I became father and was shopping for a house in this crazy time. I was so unsettled with the thought that if I don't have a permanent house, my kid will grow up at some place where once he grows up, he too will never be able to go back to his childhood memories in real life, if ever he wants to.

Average US people changes their house every 11 years. If you look at the screenshot below, all the interests are paid within first 10 years and by the end we end up paying double the amount.

Does the house grows double in value? NO!

My lender literally said in a casual talk once, mortgage is the most organized govt patronized robbery from it's citizens.

I will HODL GME until my house is paid off.

I want to have my kid his childhood preserved so that he can come back to his Pa for his favorite throwback.
