Remember when Burry tweeted the pic of the thermostat saying 72 degrees? I think he might be saying that point 72 is the regulator here, they're literally maintaining the temps. They're probably the ones keeping things going & I think that we need more eyes on them. Very ironic that crypto spikes after GME goes up $17.

I've been watching the correlation between the crypto dumps/pumps and the GME dumps/pumps, certainly seems related in some way.

After I started following a twitter account that just posts huge whale crypto transfers and realized it's in the billions and trillions, it finally clicked. They're using crypto pump and dumps to generate cash, then laundering that cash through the Fed with the overnight repo treasury bond with a nice little interest payout as a bonus.

The US government is the mob and they're all guilty of the worst fraud in the history of money (seriously).
