I wanted to say thank you for HODLING with me. It is an honor to fight the GME Bears with you all. I believe the GME Bulls will end up winning in the end; The SHF know that the whole world is watching and most people are either off Robin the hood or DRS so disabling the buy button is probably not in their playbook. I invested in GME prior to the January sneeze. My major investment in GME came after what I heard happened with robbing the hood and friends. I bought the dip several times and ended up buying more than I felt comfortable with. I am including a few shares and will transfer more to CS.

I came across this video and modified it, in hopes to contribute. The video implies that Master's of mankind (such as financial institutions or other wealthy entity that follows the vile maxim) rule the world. I believe some of the master's of mankind are Citadel and some of their corrupted friends. However, a lot of it you all already know what is discussed in the video. I hope that one day there will be a free and fair market where they can't rob retail via illegal naked shorting, etc, pay up when they loose and prevent the one's in power to take away the buy button.

None of this is financial advice. Source of the video can be found here:

Also, I modified the screenshot from the CS site. If a mod needs to see the original then I can provide them with it.
