Quick Mini DD because I cant stop thinking about it. So its no secret Ryan Cohen recently purchased BBBY and more GME. We have obviously seen the tweets from him related Boston Consulting Company. Well I've done more digging in terms of how Citadel & Boston Consulting Company relate.....

Lets start with the Boston Consulting Company and Citadel. Ken Griffin and Citadel actually hired Boston Consulting Group in 1998.

The goal was I quote "Our goal is to quantify what we can quantify. To take the human element out where we can. To see if we can turn the investment process into widget making." We have all seen recently how AI/Algorithms have been running the markets....

Now you ask this was in 1998 why does this matter today? Well if you look at a chart you can see how the markets are being ran by algorithms. Citadel was also fined for using algorithms on retail in 2007 which begs the question how long has this been going on?

So how does this relate to GME. Lets take a look at RC Ventures Filings for GME & BBBY.

What do these companies both have to do with Boston Consulting Company. Well they worked with GameStop pre Cohen and were recently sued by them. Saying they overachieved when helping out Gamestop citing 1,000's for hours on the project. See for yourself:

They also are currently the consulting company for BBBY.

So Boston Consulting Company (the company hired by Citadel to automate processes) is also on the inside of companies heavily shorted by Citadel & Company.....

I cant be the only one that sees the massive conflict of interest here right?

I will continue to DRS and hold as long as need be. Why you ask?

Also please feel free to add in comments. I think this connection is very important to be looked at in as much detail as possible!
