Yahoo is leaking 250m naked shorts and on the rise. There are also weird 7brazilian puts. Up from 5brazilian from last time. I have no idea how anything works but is it possible the brazilian puts are the amount of transactions due to boxing the bid/ask unresolved due to ftd as they can't even resolve their own wash sales without real shares. And as transactions go over the ftd deadline they become "realized naked shares" and added to the reported float?
