Here me out, this applies to gme as well.

No proof, just a thought experiment. There's a lot of speculation around a big player getting the call from Marge, maybe even failing. But what if this dip was caused by big players aiming for stop loses (they must not remember Apes dont do those) and trying to force retail margin calls (maybe the uusb crowd)? The goal would be to force retail out of positions for the next 30 days due to wash sales.

Thoughts?

Edit: Obviously panic selling too, but this crowd doesn't appear to be into that
